

Inference

Students write in their journals about which gods they think are most likely to win the elections and why.

Polls are conducted and outside experts are asked for their opinions. Young people are asked to make predictions about the election.

Herodotus Questions for Poseidon

Can you tell voters why you would be a better ruler than Aphrodite?

Posted May 6, 2008 9:40 am

Poseidon2 Answer

Aphrodite has no special power that could actually affect the world nicely. Sure, making people find their true love is good, but it could go backwards. It would take out the adventure of finding your soul mate by yourself. Aphrodite may also take important and sometimes dangerous matters to softly. Although I, Poseidon, would take these matters seriously while still being nice towards all beings.

Posted May 6, 2008 9:54 am

Herodotus Questions for Poseidon

When Aphrodite was asked the same question she answered, "Yes I can tell the voters why I would be a better ruler than Poseidon because I would love everyone and I wouldn't try to make droughts or anything harmful to Olympus." Thoughts?

Posted May 6, 2008 9:58 am

Think about how standards support use of graphics to: plan, predict, forecast, influence and infer.

Teaching

Students are thinking about what others need to know about their god and teaching others through their web page.

They use the online interviews as a place to share their knowledge and opinions about their gods.

Meet Hephaestus

Favorite way to spend free time: Telling jokes.

Hobbies: My hobbies are making statues and pieces of furniture.

Favorite Color: Blue because it reminds me of an important day.

Who is your favorite person on the planet: My best friends, the Cyclopes.

Favorite song made by a mortal in the last few years: My favorite song is Bad Song by the band Green Day.

Meet Prometheus

Favorite way to spend free time: My favorite way to spend my free time is to take a very long walk through Hera's garden now that I am no longer chained to a rock on a mountainside.

Hobbies: My favorite hobby is building sanctuaries for the beautiful eagles and vultures... so they can't chase me down and eat my liver.

Favorite Color: My favorite color is definitely blue, because it reminds me of the beautiful blue mountain sky that I saw day after day while chained to a mountain.

Who is your favorite person on the planet: My favorite person on the planet is probably Athena. She is very wise and intelligent.

Favorite song made by a mortal in the last few years: My favorite song is probably "Wanna Talk About Me" by Toby Keith.

Favorite movie made by a mortal in the last few years: My favorite movie is probably "Calamity Jane". It's a kind of old movie but it's kind of recent.

Favorite television show made by mortals in the last few years: My favorite television show is "Friends."

Best quality as a god: My best quality as a god is probably my kindness.

Worst quality as a god: My worst quality is probably my tendency to switch sides.

Think about how standards support use of graphics to: model, tutor, guide, review, demonstrate and present.